Invisible Bench

Cub Scout skit · simple props · About 1 minute

An imaginary seat fills up with Scouts, until someone reveals that the bench has moved.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
4-8 Scouts	None	About 1 minute	Any den

Setup

- Scout 1 stands with knees slightly bent, pretending to sit. Other Scouts enter one at a time.
- Choose the final Scout before starting. Leave space for everyone to straighten up safely.

Script

SCOUT 2	What are you doing?
SCOUT 1	Sitting on this invisible bench.
SCOUT 2	Can I join you?
SCOUT 1	Sure! There is plenty of room.
STAGE NOTE	Scout 2 pretends to sit beside Scout 1. Each additional Scout asks the same questions and joins the row.
FINAL SCOUT	What are you all doing?
ALL SEATED	Sitting on this invisible bench!
FINAL SCOUT	But I moved that bench over there this morning!
STAGE NOTE	Everyone looks down, straightens up in surprise, and says "Whoa!" together. Exit.

LEADER NOTE

Practice the imaginary seat and the final reaction once before adding lines. Use shallow knee bends or stand upright with hands resting on an imaginary seat; nobody falls. Keep each entrance quick.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scouting America - Invisible Bench

Ice Fishing

Cub Scout skit · simple props · 1-2 minutes

Three fishers keep trying new spots on the ice. A helpful voice knows why they are having no luck.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
4 Scouts	None; rods optional	1-2 minutes	Any den

Setup

- Three Scouts stand together and mime drilling a hole, then fishing. Scout 4 speaks from offstage.
- Move only a few steps between spots. All drilling and fishing are pretend.

Script

FISHER 1	Let's catch some fish for dinner!
STAGE NOTE	The fishers mime drilling a hole, lower their imaginary lines, and wait.
VOICE	There are no fish there!
FISHER 2	Who said that? Let's try over here.
STAGE NOTE	They move a few steps, drill another imaginary hole, and fish again.
VOICE	There are no fish there!
FISHER 3	One more spot. This one looks perfect!
STAGE NOTE	They move, drill, and lower their lines. Pause briefly.
VOICE	There are NO fish here! I'm the ice rink manager!
FISHER 1	Oops. Wrong kind of ice!
STAGE NOTE	The fishers look at each other, gather their imaginary gear, and exit.

LEADER NOTE

Tell Scouts what an ice rink is before rehearsal, without explaining the ending to the audience. Keep the voice loud and clear; pause after "manager" so the audience can catch the joke.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits

Is It Time Yet?

Cub Scout skit · simple props · About 1 minute

A very important question travels down a line. The answer leads to a very small change.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
4-8 Scouts	None	About 1 minute	Lions and Tigers

Setup

- Scouts stand in a row facing the audience, arms folded and ankles loosely crossed.
- The first Scout starts each question; the last Scout gives the answer.

Script

FIRST SCOUT	Is it time yet?
STAGE NOTE	Each Scout turns to the next and repeats "Is it time yet?" until the question reaches the end.
LAST SCOUT	No.
STAGE NOTE	Each Scout passes "No" back along the row. Wait two seconds.
FIRST SCOUT	Is it time yet?
STAGE NOTE	Pass the question down again, then pass the last Scout's "No" back. Wait two seconds.
FIRST SCOUT	IS IT TIME YET?
STAGE NOTE	Pass the question down one final time.
LAST SCOUT	Yes!
STAGE NOTE	Pass "Yes!" back. When it reaches the first Scout, that Scout nods. Everyone uncrosses their arms and ankles, then crosses them the other way. Hold the new pose for a beat, then exit.

LEADER NOTE

Rehearse the final movement first, using the first Scout's nod as the cue. Keep ankles loose and feet on the ground for balance. Use folded arms alone if preferred. Three rounds are enough; avoid long waits.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits

The Amazing Bruce

Cub Scout skit · simple props · 1 minute + callback

A team launches an imaginary acrobat high into the sky. His return becomes a surprise later in the program.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
5-7 Scouts	None	1 minute + callback	Pack campfire

Setup

- One announcer and 4-6 team members form a semicircle, holding an imaginary blanket.
- Bruce is imaginary. Agree with the program leader when the team will return.

Script

ANNOUNCER	Presenting the Amazing Bruce and our world-famous blanket team!
STAGE NOTE	The team looks at the imaginary Bruce in the blanket, then gently "tosses" him and follows him with their eyes.
ANNOUNCER	A little higher! One, two, three!
STAGE NOTE	Toss again. Everyone looks higher, then tracks Bruce back into the blanket.
ANNOUNCER	Bruce wants to try for a record! Give him a cheer!
ANNOUNCER	One, two, THREE!
STAGE NOTE	Everyone tosses and looks far overhead. Pause, still looking up.
ANNOUNCER	That may take a while. We'll be back!
STAGE NOTE	Everyone exits. At the agreed cue after another skit or song, the announcer returns.
ANNOUNCER	Here comes Bruce! Team, get ready!
STAGE NOTE	The team returns, forms the blanket, watches Bruce descend, and gently "catches" him. Everyone bows toward Bruce and cheers. Exit.

LEADER NOTE

Rehearse looking and tossing together; Bruce should be in the same place for everyone. Never lift or throw a person. Arrange the callback in advance and keep the team nearby so the ending is not forgotten.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits

Can't Work in the Dark

Cub Scout skit · simple props · About 1 minute

A work crew has an unusual helper. When that helper leaves, the whole crew takes a break.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
5-8 Scouts	None	About 1 minute	Any den

Setup

- One Scout is the supervisor, one is the lightbulb, and 3-6 are workers.
- Workers mime raking leaves. The lightbulb stands nearby with one hand raised.

Script

SUPERVISOR	Everyone is busy except you. What is your job?
LIGHTBULB	I'm the lightbulb!
SUPERVISOR	We need help raking. Please put your hand down and join us.
STAGE NOTE	The supervisor walks away. Workers keep raking; the lightbulb keeps a hand raised.
SUPERVISOR	Still standing there? You can take your break now.
LIGHTBULB	Okay!
STAGE NOTE	The lightbulb lowers their hand and exits. All the workers immediately stop raking.
SUPERVISOR	Why did everybody stop? There are still leaves to rake!
WORKER 1	We can't work in the dark!
STAGE NOTE	The workers shrug and exit together. The supervisor looks up at the missing "light," shakes their head, and exits.

LEADER NOTE

The lightbulb leaving is the cue for every worker to stop together. Keep the supervisor friendly and puzzled. Rehearse the final line slowly and clearly; use imaginary tools and normal room lighting.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits

Clean Socks

Cub Scout skit · simple props · 1-2 minutes

A supply helper hands out socks. One Scout has a surprising idea of how many pairs they need.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
5 Scouts	Clean socks or tokens	1-2 minutes	Wolves and older

Setup

- One supply helper faces four Scouts in a short line. Use clean socks, paper tokens, or imaginary pairs.
- Hand over a token or mime each order; there is no need to count out twelve real pairs.

Script

HELPER	New socks! Step right up. How many pairs do you need?
SCOUT 1	Two pairs. One to wear and one in the laundry.
HELPER	Here you go. Next!
SCOUT 2	Four pairs. I change them Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday.
HELPER	Four it is! Next!
SCOUT 3	Seven pairs, please.
HELPER	A fresh pair every day?
SCOUT 3	You got it!
HELPER	Excellent. And how many do you need?
SCOUT 4	Twelve pairs!
HELPER	Twelve? Why so many?
SCOUT 4	Well, there's January, February, March...
STAGE NOTE	The helper freezes, then looks toward the audience. Everyone groans together and exits.

LEADER NOTE

Assign the months to a Scout who can say them confidently. Pause after "March" instead of listing all twelve. Explain privately that the joke is the silly misunderstanding; change socks daily and whenever wet or dirty.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits

The Viper Is Coming

Cub Scout skit · simple props · About 1 minute

Four Scouts announce a mysterious visitor. The visitor turns out to have a very ordinary job.

Cast	Props	Length	Best for
5 Scouts	Cloth and VIPER sign	About 1 minute	Wolves and older

Setup

- Four Scouts enter separately with increasingly dramatic announcements. The visitor enters last carrying a cloth.
- The visitor wears a sign reading VIPER. Use a normal voice; the joke is the name on the sign.

Script

SCOUT 1	The Viper is coming!
STAGE NOTE	Scout 1 looks around dramatically, then exits.
SCOUT 2	I heard the Viper is on the way!
STAGE NOTE	Scout 2 points offstage and exits.
SCOUT 3	Get ready! The Viper is almost here!
STAGE NOTE	Scout 3 looks toward the entrance, then exits.
SCOUT 4	The Viper is here!
STAGE NOTE	The visitor enters calmly, showing the VIPER sign and holding up the cloth.
VISITOR	Hello! I'm Viper, your window wiper!
STAGE NOTE	The other Scouts return, look at the cloth, and groan together. The visitor cheerfully wipes an imaginary window. Exit.

LEADER NOTE

Practice the visitor's line slowly so "Viper" and "wiper" are easy to hear. The sign supports the pun without an accent. Make the announcements playful rather than frightening; no chasing or sudden screams.

Printable handout for any pack or den. Adapted from a traditional skit; wording and staging revised.
Reference: Scout Life - 10 Funny Campfire Skits